Fresh English Troops Landing In France

Paris, Sept. 25.—Two separate engagements of grand magnitude are wounded in an attempt to take Verdun at the eastern end of the battle line. The allies continue assaults on the German right flank from Roisel to German right flank and seem to be the Aisne and around the forts at slowly pushing the Germans back, Verdun at the eastern end of the battle up to the time this was written line.

Neither side has gained a decisive advantage. Fresh English troops practically unchanged with a desultory artillery duel in progress. Late of them are already on the firing line. Germans lost ten thousand.

SUIT CASES ARE STOLEN

DEPUTIES LAND MAN IN JAIL

Cottage Installment Company's Store in Dixie Burglarized Last Night.—Intruder Cuts Self and Blood-Stained Finger Prints Left.

The Cottage Installment Company's store in Dixie was burglarized last night and five suit cases and a quantity of merchandise, was taken. Entrance was gained by breaking out the upper portion of a window glass at the rear of the building, sufficient for the passage of a body.

Indications are that the job was done by a novice or a drunken man, as the entrance through the broken window caused the intruder to cut his hand or fingers, blood stains being found about the premises. The man, after breaking the glass, could have removed the latch and raised the window, but it is not believed this was done. The upper part of the glass was broken out, leaving a jagged portion at the bottom over Columbus Ledger.

The scores of friends of Mrs. Emma Lumpkin, aged 56, were shocked when Police Officer E. O. Spivey appeared as well as usual yesterday made an investigation early Friday and her sudden death was therefore morning. Although Mrs. Lumpkin were visible on the show cases and had been a sufferer from stomach trouble for the past few years, she was a faithful, loving and devoted mother, a kind-hearted and indulgent neighbor, and had the happy faculty of scattering sunshine and joy in every circle in which she moved. She was an active worker in church affairs until ill health forced her to abandon her energies and her presence will be sorely missed by her co-workers.

The deceased lady is survived by her husband, Mr. W. L. Lumpkin; two sons, Messrs. Frank Lumpkin, of Clanton, Ala., and Arthur Lumpkin, of Taylor, Ala., and two daughters, Mrs. Omie McKinney of Gadsden, and Mrs. Elma Long of Phenix City, all of whom have the sympathy of a legion of friends in the sudden bereavement that has come along.

Police Officer Spivey was successful in discovering several clues, which may lead to the arrest of the burglar.

PARKS SHOOTS SELF TWICE IN THE SAME PLACE

But Slight Hope Held for Recovery of Former Solicitor R. H. Parks Who Attempted Suicide at Troy Early This Morning.

(Special to The Eagle)

Troy, Ala., Sept. 25.—R. H. Parks, who for fifteen years or more was Solicitor of the Twelfth Judicial Circuit, but who resigned just before the expiration of his last term of office on account of ill health, attempted suicide by shooting himself with a .32 revolver in his room at the New Troy Hotel shortly after 7 o'clock Friday morning, and there is but slight chance for his recovery.

The .32 revolver found by those who rushed to the aid of the wounded man, showed that two bullets had been fired, both entering at the same place and passing through the lung just above the heart.

Despondency because of ill health is given as the cause that prompted the well-known and popular lawyer to attempt to take his own life. His health became so bad that he resigned his position as Solicitor some time ago. His house was burned in Troy a few weeks ago, and this coupled with his failing health and other general worry, is believed to have prompted him to commit the act in a moment of great despondency.

The family of Solicitor Parks, who were in Dothan Friday morning, are hastening to his bedside. He had come to Troy on business and to attend to legal matters. The family moved from Troy to Dothan a short while ago.

REVOLTS IN BOHEMIA.

Rome, Sept. 25.—The smoldering discontent among the mixed nationalities of Austria has burst into flame according to diplomatic advices today. Revolts have broken out in Bohemia, Silesia and Croatia, and rioting has been in progress for several days at Prague, where many were killed. There is a number of Americans in the city and efforts are being made to locate them.

NO NEWS FROM BIEBOLD.

No authentic news was received in Dothan Friday from the community of Clarence Biedbold, near Columbus, and if the man has been captured, the incident has not been confirmed. It was reported on the streets that the fugitive was taken last night, but the report is believed to be a mistake.

THE ACREAGE NEXT YEAR.
Commercial Appeal.

As a temporary expedient, the buy a bale movement has great merit. Properly managed, the plan affords practical help to many unable to carry their cotton.

It will help others to hold their cotton a reasonable length of time. The movement more than anything else has drawn the attention of the whole country to the real situation in the south. It has also impressed upon the country at large the tremendous value cotton has as the instrument for bringing gold back from Europe in the fall and winter.

On June 4 the Bank of England held $179,000,000 in gold. On Sept. 17, the Bank of England held $243,000,000.

Last June the New York banks had $441,000,000 in gold and a few days ago they held $220,000,000.

The steady flow of cotton to Europe under normal conditions would quickly turn the tide of gold in this direction.

This extraordinary condition would obtain every year at this time but for the prospective exports of cotton. The value of the cotton exported every year by the United States is more than the entire stock of gold now held by the Bank of England.

If cotton cannot be exported, the 40 per cent of the crop under normal American manufacturing conditions will not be consumed, but American mill takings will be larger. They will not be large enough, however, to consume the overplus.

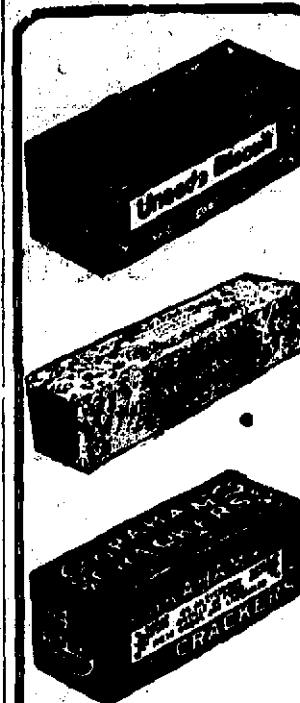

The problem then, reduces itself what is to be done next year. If the production of cotton is cut down next year, and when the trade realizes that the production of cotton will be cut down, that moment will the price of the present crop advance to a reasonable figure.

The action of an official of the United States government in calling the governors of the cotton producing states to Washington on Sept. 20 should be responded to by every governor. There a plan should be agreed upon, and if this plan calls for extra sessions of the legislatures those sessions should be held.

If the war should suddenly end the manufacturing should be resumed, then the action taken by the various legislatures could be rescinded.

Two days ago it was thought that the allies would be able to give the German army in France a decisive beating this week, but the German army now struggling with the western allies, has about as good a chance to win as its adversary.

The prospect of immediate peace hangs on the collapse of the German offensive and defensive. The a curtailment of cotton production, however, moves very slowly. The but how much time alone can tell.

THE NO-CROP PROPOSITION.

Mobile Register. Braxton hardly defines the action proposed by the Mississippi Cotton Growers' Association, which formally approved a resolution to absolutely inhibit for one year the production of cotton in that state.

Cultivation cannot be enforced by law, say the lawyers, so the police powers are to be invoked. If the state officials will it, and the right is to be made on the low price of cotton and on the boll-weevil at the same time by planting no cotton in the state.

If this is carried out, it will be a foolish thing. Hardly one per cent of the farmers in Mississippi or in any other cotton-growing state, for that matter, know how to cultivate any other crop. They haven't the machinery, they haven't the seed, they haven't the knowledge that comes from experience with any other, and they haven't the inclination to grow anything else but cotton.

To prevent every man from growing cotton would bring bankruptcy on the state, would throw the agricultural operations into such disorder that they could not rally for another planting year.

It is proper that there should be a curtailment of cotton production.

The but how much time alone can tell.

Small reinforcements are arriving. If the bankers of the South will let together and absolutely enforce the rule to lend no money to any planter who does not reduce his acreage to an agreed percentage, and who does not plant so many acres in corn, wheat, hay and potatoes, they will solve this problem.

Oh, it can't be done! be the reply to this suggestion. What has been done can be done. Four years ago the banks of Tuskegee, Macon county, Alabama, adopted this policy and they saw that the agreement was carried out in good faith. It resulted in immediate prosperity to that county and had an educative effect that will now result in still further curtailment of the cotton production without any law.

Many of the farmers in the south are negroes, and if these are not allowed to make some cotton they will leave the fields uncultivated. They can be taught to raise grain and stock and do diversified farming, but it cannot be done by using a bludgeon. If the men who own the land and who are financed by the bankers are induced to favor the curtailment of production, production will be curtailed.

However, the problem of today is to buy a bale and help take care of this season's crop. Six million bales must be held until prices are normal.

ABOUT THE SHUTTLE TRAIN.

We don't know just what arrangement has been made about running the fair trains down town. It is said that they will stop at the depot. If they run no further than the depot, it will convenience but few people. If they walk half way, they may as well walk the other. If they have to hire a back to and from the depot, it will carry them on for about the same money. The visitors out of town, will come down town only when they have to. It is an injustice to the merchants of the city who have given the fair movement their support, expecting to have a better full business by the fair.

The Coast Line has a spur track down town, to St. Andrews street, and the train could be run on down there just as well as stopping it at the depot, half a mile away. It would be worth more to the road, for it would make more travel, and it will be worth much more to the people of Dothan.

And it would look like the trains should be run later at night than 7:30 o'clock. That gets a crowd out there, but doesn't get them back.

WHY ADVERTISE NOW?

We are asked to advise if, under present conditions, advertising should be curtailed.

But each line has its own unique "present conditions." Such a question involves several forms of advice.

These are boom times in some lines. Many factories are overwhelmed with orders. Some face a demand far beyond their capacity.

Some cater largely to farmers, and farmers in general seem this year to be getting rather more than their share of prosperity. The farmer with full pockets finds nothing too good for him. He's a magnificent spender.

Those fortunate advertisers who are oversold can very wisely cut down on their advertising. There is no virtue in selling more than one can deliver.

There are other lines imported, or requiring imported materials, on which there is stoppage of supplies.

There are lines which for these, or other transient reasons, sell now at abnormal prices. These are lines sold at fixed prices, on which advancing costs have decimated profits for a time. On all such lines one might advise curtailment in all forms of salesmanship.

But "present conditions" in general mean a degree of depression, a shade of uncertainty. And the query is, if in such situations advertising should be curtailed or stopped.

By all means, no. Should a runner stop for a rising grade, or a swimmer for an adverse tide? If they did, where might there rivals in the race be when they started up?

Advertising ought to be the cheapest salesmanship. Also the most efficient. If it is that, then it is the last force to reduce. If it isn't then it needs, in good or bad times, rehabilitation.

In national advertising our most prosperous times come during business depression. Then is when men who are on the right lines fight hardest. Then is when waste is eliminated, and the cheapest and best methods are used to the limit. And this is when the weak and inefficient abandon the field to the stronger.

There may be less business to get in dull times, but there are also less men who use the best ways to get it. Some of the greatest harvests ever gathered in advertising have been gathered in times of depression.

We find that good advertising is rarely stopped by misfortune. It is ten times as often stopped by over-demand.

The chief clients of this house are today pressing advertising harder than ever before.

But is this in reality any time to feel blue? Doesn't it look as though we might be on the verge of unprecedented business prosperity?

Home prospects look better than usual. Big crops at high prices bring smiles to the faces of nearly one-half of our people. The railroads got a little encouragement. Our new banking system will ward off some dangers.

Then what new boons may come to us—like gifts from the dead—as the result of this pitiful war? Reason tells us they must come if we reach out to get them. Life still flows on amid that devastation. People must be clothed and fed. And the markets abandoned by the nations which held them should be supplied by us.

When millions desert the art of peace, those who abide, well-equipped and ready, surely ought to prosper.

As for war news affecting the value of ads it certainly doesn't detract from them. It is giving to advertisers increased circulation, with no advance in cost.

The argument that it makes newspapers too interesting is a new one in advertising. The most interesting magazines have always been the best patronized. Why should we seek for dull newspapers?

In any event, the average woman is not a great reader of news. Her favorite pages in the newspaper remain about as ever. She is the household buyer. And the majority of advertising—even on men's things—depends on its appear-

No, these are not times to cease advertising, say under rare conditions. The harder the fight the more one needs his best weapons. The more quitters there are the more there is for the rest of us. And we who keep ready and active and fit—who keep in the thick of things, dull times and good—will hold immeasurable advantage when the tide comes in.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Headache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headaches or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then set free. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with Lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent Lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

CALL FOR COTTON BAGS

There are many manufacturers who have been using jute bags, who have now begun the use of cotton bags. They are doing that with a view of helping the cotton farmer. Practically all of the meal, bran, flour and such stuff, comes to us in jute sack, which are made abroad, and which should be discontinued and cotton bags substituted.

Pack in the 90's there were many bags of cotton packed up in cotton bagging. This is a time to go back to cotton bagging and cotton sacks. Demand, when you buy stuff that comes in jute bags that it be put up in cotton bags, and the South is benefitted thereby.

One of the local wholesale houses had a letter from the Corners people of St. Louis, stating that they had discontinued the use of jute bags and would use cotton ones. If the wholesale people would demand it; if the retail people would demand it, and if the buyers would demand it, all of this would be changed and that within a very few months.

Any of the cotton bags could be used for something else when they were empty. They are valuable for many things, whereas the jute sacks are not.

Let everybody call for goods in cotton bags.

Use "Gets-It" Corns Shriveled, Vanish!

It's the New Way, and You'll Forget You Ever Had Corns.

Two drops put on in 2 seconds, corn shrivels, corns clean off! That's the marvelous story of "Gets-It," the new, plain corn cure. Nothing can be simpler for the cure of corns—and it never fails. That's why millions of people are using

"GETS-IT" today and throwing away their fussy plasters, sticky tape, toe-eating salves, and "wrapping outfit" that make a bundle around the toe and choke it into pain by pressing either on or around the corn. There is nothing to stick to your stocking, nothing to cause inflammation or rawness, nothing to press on or around the corn. You apply it in 2 seconds. No more knives, razors, scissors or files with their blood poison dangers. Try "GETS-IT" for that corn, callus, wart or bunion.
